

Caroline Wright

CEO of the Lord Mayor's Appeal

Caroline Wright was made a Founding Patron of City Consorts in 2017.

Having spent over 30 years in the charity sector primarily at The Prince's Trust, Caroline joined The Lord Mayor's Appeal in 2014 as part of the Appeal team for Sir Alan Yarrow. This team then became the permanent team working with consecutive Lord Mayors and Appeals. Caroline was instrumental in the Appeal's strategy, A Better City for All, incorporating the 4 pillars – Inclusive, Healthy, Skilled and Fair and taking the Appeal from a one year 'pop up' Appeal to a multi-year Appeal which currently supports the three charities National Numeracy, MQ Mental Health Research and the Duke of Edinburgh's Award.

In June 2019, Caroline was appointed Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of The Lord Mayor's Appeal.

Caroline is a keen singer and spends one evening a week rehearsing with Popchoir as well as taking part in many small and large concerts and gigs in London. She is married to James and they have two grown up sons.
